
BIG CROP CAMPAIGN IS BEGUN IN STATE BY DEFENSE BOARD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 12.—Put in the crop!
This is the message that will be printed in every nook and corner of Wisconsin's immense farming territory in a campaign by the newly-created State Council of Defense. The Wisconsin Council of Defense, created by the National Council for Defense, has been in action during the last few weeks. Preliminary work in the organization of the promotion of agriculture transportation finance and every department of activity upon which the Council will operate have already been formed and are in action. This preliminary work has been accomplished rapidly and systematically.

Start Crop Campaign.
Wars today are won with pellets of lead rather than with steel-jacketed bullets and the big men of the state, realizing this, are co-operating in what will undoubtedly be the most gigantic crop campaign in the history of any state of the union.

In this Wisconsin, as many times before, is leading and pointing the way for other states, many of whom have already written for information as to the Wisconsin plan.

Railroad heads, industrial kings, bankers, newspapers, telephone companies, board of trade, chambers of commerce and various civic organizations are already behind the movement.

Wisconsin railroads have agreed after conferences in Madison, to send special trains over the lines tapping the rural districts. These trains will carry some of the state's most prominent men who will make direct appeals to the farmers to hasten the work of planting, assuring them of farm labor when needed to get in the crop and discouraging the growing of anything but staple products.

Many Promise Cooperation.
The telephone companies of the state have agreed to cooperate in reading the gospel of "Putting in the crop" and will be a material aid to the Council of Defense in reaching farmers in distant sections.

The Wisconsin Advancement Association, whose membership includes some of the most prominent forces in the northern half of the state, will participate.

The Wisconsin Real Estate association with a membership of 700 will be a big factor in stimulating garden movements in cities and villages.

The Wisconsin Bankers' Association will cooperate in Marathon county two years ago they banded to gether, sold seed corn to farmers at cost and permitted them to pay in the fall without interest. A similar plan will probably be worked out for the entire state.

The Wisconsin Press Association and the Wisconsin Daily League will be enlisted to give the most extensive sort of high-class publicity which will prove invaluable.

The Wisconsin Bill-board association and the Moving Picture Association will be asked to assist, donating bill board space and advertising slides in behalf of the publicity campaign.

In order that the movement may be carried along practical lines, all organizations will be asked to co-operate with the Wisconsin Agricultural College and all allied organizations, such as the Potato Growers' Association, Wisconsin Livestock Association and the Wisconsin Experimental Association.

The assistance of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Milwaukee and the various commercial and community club of Wisconsin will be given to give aid and prestige to the movement.

Farmers Are Preparing.
Wisconsin farmers are meeting the demand for maximum production this year as a matter of national defense in view of war. As rapidly as ground can be broken sowing and planting is going on.
Something unusual is noted by the agricultural experts in the demand of farmers this spring for information regarding reseeded pastures. Also the demand for seed is indicative of the interest this spring in preparing for a heavy livestock demand. War prices for stock have evidently created a rush toward herd raising as well as intensive farming.
The slogan is "plant now—prepare for silage to save hay and grain to supplement the scant pasturage of mid-summer." Livestock feeding promises now to increase the production by a large percentage. Likewise does early planting signify the fact that farmers tend to increase grain production this year.

Every acre of ground available will be planted, experts say, and in most cases farmers are planning as many crops as will be possible in view of the necessity for increased production to conduct the war.

DOING THEIR BIT.

There are any number of men who are four past the age when they would be accepted for active service by the government, who are most anxious to do their "bit" and who want the opportunity to be shown how. At a recent meeting of business men of the city, when the big local meeting was planned, it was decided to organize a "Loyalty League," to further enlistment and take some definite action as regards care for persons left dependent while their husbands, their sons, their brothers, the wage-earners of the family, answered the call to arms.

Such an organization would permit every citizen an opportunity of being of material aid to the community and government by relieving many of the anxieties which have confronted young men who ardently wish to show their patriotism but have refrained from enlisting owing to business conditions. Concerted action on the part of the members of this "Loyalty League," the membership to which is open to all.

One business man personally offered the use of two halls to the captain of the local militia unit for drill purposes, or quarters for the men if they were called out for active service here in the city. He also offered to furnish food supplies in case of need. Another, a manufacturer, notified men in his employ who are members of the local guards, that if they were called for duty their places would be ready for them on their return.

Still another citizen, this time a professional man, offered his services to Captain Caldwell to aid possible recruits by giving them free dental work if it would enable them to pass the physical examination which is most rigid. These men are doing their "bit" and ready to do more if called upon. It is just such work as this that the "Loyalty League" would accomplish and the plans for perfecting this organization are well under way. It is not only a city matter, but county-wide in scope, for all of Rock county will be affected when the actual call for volunteers comes and the militia companies are ordered out for duty.

THE NEWSPAPERS AND WAR.

The newspapers of America are exceedingly alert, and it is a big problem what to do with their efficient news services of war. As part of their contract with the reading public, they will of course print all the news they can get hold of, except in so far as they are asked to submit to a local or voluntary censorship.

Unquestionably the Mexicans in the recent border clashes got much valuable information of 1900 movement from our newspapers. The Germans would be even more alert, and any newspaper statement would in some way or another immediately find its way to our foes.

At the same time, the newspapers for public good must be given a certain amount of leeway. The English have found that to suppress interest in the war they must allow the papers to print something more than official bulletins. When the English newspapers were allowed to tell more of what was going on at the front, the result was greatly to stimulate recruiting and get a much better popular support for the war. It would be the same here.

Many of our newspapers published the other day a story how a wealthy German-American living in Washington was under surveillance for his pro-German activities, and alleged possession of military maps and plans. In cases like that, the secret service should not have its hand forced, but it should be permitted to conduct its investigations quietly.

The newspapers will be willing to submit to a reasonable censorship, and will ask only that it be applied equally to all press dispatches. The journalistic world is intensely loyal in its Americanism, and it asks only that censorship be applied with some common sense and knowledge of human nature.

WOMAN'S VOTE.

The advocates of woman's suffrage put one over on the state senate when they slipped their measure through the upper house despite the opposition of some of the prominent anti-suffragists who have taken unwaveringly the right side to be of service. What its fate will be in the assembly is a problem. If it passes then the men of the state will have an opportunity to decide whether the right shall be granted or not at a general election when the question will be submitted. In view of the wave of prohibition that is sweeping over this country, it is certain the women's vote would be a deciding element in its favor, both in state and local elections. While the measure was defeated by an overwhelming vote when presented several years ago, public sentiment has changed materially in its favor, it is possibly become a law with but little opposition. At any rate the first hurdle has been negotiated and the fight will now center in the assembly, so the beginning has been made.

"COLONEL" ROOSEVELT.

Dispatches from Washington would indicate that the gentleman from Oyster Bay played the very deuce in Washington. He hobnobbed with the President; he consulted with both republican and democratic members of congress and told them what to do and what not to do, held a reception and telephoned his advice at the same time and appeared just as strenuous as ever. In fact it is hinted that congress will be asked to make him a "General" in the army and place him in command of a foreign contingent. Certainly this would inspire enthusiasm and would be a great feather in the cap of the United States to send to a foreign shore a legion headed by an ex-president. It would give the
